(From the Correland Leader of De 19th.)

On Saturday morning about 7 o'clock the schooler J. F. Teacy. Captain William Depew, laden with 225 tons of ivon ore from Ogdansburg fer Cleveland, strived off the harbor. She endeavored to enter, but was unable to do so on account of the heavy weather, the wind blowing almost a gale from the southwest and the sea running high. Her mainsur's jib-topsaid, and flying jib were split by the wind, and she was obliged to come to anchor, about two miles from the shore, and three miles down the lake from the huttor. Signals were made for assistance, and about 2 o'clock in the afternoon the turs Levi Johnson and T. W. Notter, notwithstanding the heavy sea, went to her relief. The couragous little steamers were frequently submerged; the waves rolled over them from stem to stern, and it was with the utmost difficulty that their crews could prevent thouselves from being washed overboard. They made fast to the Tracy, however, and tried to tow her in, but the Notter almost filled with water, nearly extinguishing her fires, and she was obliged to cast off and return. The Johnson remained and made every effort to bring

She was obliged to abandon r, the Tracy again cast anchor. About ur o'clock P. M., the E. M. Peck, a much larger and more powerful tug than the others, went out and succeeded in towing her to the mouth of the harbor, when a heavy sea struck the vessel and the line parted. Both anchors were immediately let go, and as soon as possible the Johnson and Peck both went to her assistance. They made fast to her and she was coming in fixely, when the line snapped a second time and the anchors were again dropped. It was now after dark, and it seemed impossible for the true to do a which are the control of the state of the same transfer and the seemed impossible for the true to do a which are the same transfer as the same transfer and the same transfer and the same transfer and the same transfer as the same transfer as the same transfer and the same transfer as the same transfe possible for the tugs to do anything more. The schooner soon commenced dragging her anchors, and although the entire length of chain was payed out, she still dragged, and about eleven o'clock went against the l'ittsburg pier. She was made fast by means of lines, which was all that could be done in the emergency, although it was expected that she would be broken to pieces before morning. The crew went to pieces before morning. The crew went on board until about three o'clock in the morning, when, the sea having partially gone down, the tug Levi Johnson went out and succeeded in towing her into port. Her boat was crushed, davits carried away, main boom broken and small anpossible for the tugs to do anything me

The captain and crew did all in their power to prevent disaster, and they were truly fortunate in escaping as well as they did. Great praise is due to well as they did. Great praise is due to the captain, and also to the officers of the tugs for their efforts to save the vessel.

The schooner I. W. Nicholas, Captain W.m. Young, from Buffalo with a cargo of 2,150 bnrrels salt, two anchors, and 350 fathoms cable chains, arrived off the harbor about ten o'clock, A. M., Saturday morning. The tug Ajax went to her assistance but could not tow her ngainst the heavy wind, and she cast anchor about four miles from shore, the tug returning four miles from shore, the ting returning to port half full of water. The anchor of the Nicholas, weighing 1,900 pounds, with 145 fathoms of chain, held her in safety, and she rode out the storm through the day and night. She was towed in at ten o'clock yesterday morning without injury. The officers and crew, consisting of ten men, suffered through the night, as it was intensely cold and the waves swept over the entire length of the vessel. It required five hours of hand labor to heave up the another on Sunday morning. The Vester anchor on Sunday morning. The Nicho las is owned in Vermillion, at which por

The one great drawback is the want of means and men. The failure of both the corn and cotton crops through large regions of the South makes the pecuniary prostration deeper than ever. Wide fields of blighted corn and stunted and dried-ar cotton meet the eye on every side. As none of his companions had the courage necessary to undertake the job, Smith performed the amputation himself. As wonderful as it may appear to the professional reader, Smith sleg healed, and formed a very good stump. It was this fact that gave him the name of Peg-leg Smith. In 1830 he visited Cahiornia for the first time, and was so pleased with the climate that he returned here shortly after the country came into the possession of the United States. Four or tive years ago Peg-leg was a habitue of Monigomery street, and was always to be found at the "Old Corner." About three years ago he began to decline, and was finally compelled to take up his abode in the City Hospital, where he lingered until he died from old age.

There is a rnmor in the official world that the Pope will issue another encyclical to all the Catholic bishops and faithful throughout the world, culling attention to the territorial difficulties of Italy, tion of September will place him in an untenable situation, and claims the inter-vention of all Catholic powers in support of the temporal sovereignty of the Roman pontiffs. The threatened departure of the Pope has alarmed the French Ambassa-dor; he is uneasy also about the move-ments of Mr. Gladstone, who has already had two interviews with the Holy Father and visited many of the cardinals. Yes-terday the Pope received Mrs. Gladstone, and visited many of the Cardinais. Teaching the Pope received Mrs. Gladistone, who was accompanied by her children. It is said at the Vatican that Mr. Gladistone told the Holy Father there were but two courses open to him; he must either come to an arrangement with Italy, or leave Rome, and in the latter case he would nowhere be more independent than in Malta. Mr. Gladistone, at the same time, presented His Holicess with a plan of the palace of the Grand Master at Valetta, remarking that it would afford him a very convenient residence. The Pope's threat of departure may, after all, be only used to induce the French to prolong their occupation. Certainly his Holiness has been wavering since the consistory, and has even allowed a high personage to write to Florence to intinate that he might be disposed to renew accordances if might be disposed to renew aegotiations if the Italian Government senthim an honest man. A CURIOUS INVENTION.—The Union Medicale, n French journal publish a paper by Dr. Duffay, on a curious and useful invention, due to the lagenuity of a celebrated exconjuror, M. Robert Houdin. The object is to give the alarm of fire at the very commencement of the threatenel catastrophe, and the following description will show how this is accomplished: Suppo e a cepper lamina and a steel one to be soldered together by their surfaces, so as to form a single blade, copper on one rangement will be best understood by suppassing a knife to be brought close to the board as if with the intention of cutting it through. Now suppose a metal knob to be fixed on the board, on the steel side of the blade, and at a short distance from it.
This knob is connected with one of the poles of a voltaic battery, the other pole of which communicates with the screw which secures the fixed extremity of the blade, and with one of those bells or alarms which we see used in the telegraph offices to prepare the clerks for the reception of a message. Now let the blade be warued; as the dilation of copper by heat is greater than that of steel, it follows that the blade will be bent, the concave side being the steel one; and if the heat applied be sufficient, a contact will be effectly be sufficient, a contact will be effectly begins to ring, and contianes doing so until the contact is interrapted. Jimmy McCallahan is a "broth of a oy," who wears his hat noon the back of his head as jauntily as ever Brian Boro ever wore his helmet; who whites his "dudeen" as complacently as Murdagh of the Red Hand ever slit the throat of a "Sassenach," and who is as fond of "a drop of the erayther," as any son of the "gim of the say." In fact, in the matter of sunping his bit of "potheen," one, or even two, and we might truthfully say, three drops scarcely ever sufficed to quench Jimmy's thirst. His thirst, as he expresses it himself, is "a terrible disase with him, that requires frequent and large doses of medicine-and his favorite medi cine, in fact, we might say, the only medicine he will use, unfortunately for him this morning, turns ont to be-whisky. Last night Jimmy experienced an unu sually severe attack of thirst, which caused him to double his doses of the remedy. The consequences were that his feet became mixed up with his brains, the mnd from the former mnddling the latter. While in this state of mental muddiness the idea popped into his head that, as the night was growing "cowldher," and the "girl of his heart" kept bright, warm fires, and was as pretty a piece of woman flesh as ever crossed the salt sea, as well as good company as ever entertained a "giutleman from The bogs of ould Ireland." he would pay her a call. So call he did; and as he perambulated the wintry shades of the levce to reach her abiding place, he gave vent to his feelings in song. Music rolled from his tongue in waves of inharonious guttnrals, and more than once his brawny form followed his music, aud suddenly found itself in the gutter.

At length he reached "fair Ellen's bower," and demanded admittance in toucs and with raps that surely would have rous ed the dead-had there been a corpse handy. There was a moment of deathly silence, followed by a "hurrying to and fro" within the domicil; theu the door was opened, Jimmy staggered in, and the night and cold and darkness lost sight of him. It was but a few seconds, however, be "Linden saw another sight,"

This practice of these parties has been noticed more than once in the ity papers, and sometime since one of temporaries specially called the attention of the police to the nuisance. Wc now call their attention to the matter. The men who are guilty of such nngenemanly conduct, are certainly loafers of the strictest and the straightest sect. They ertainly do not obtain wages for standing n street corners from early morn to dewy ve, and they are never missed from their tations save at lunch time, when they disappear for a few moments, only to reurn to their customary stands, fortified for the labor of insulting ladies by full

The lady passed on indignant and tearful, followed by a ugh and boisterous laugh from the fellow's shameless companions.

We do hope the proper police authori ties will take the matter in hand. It is not only in their province, but it is their right-nay, more, their duty-a duty they owe to society, to disperse these male awds, to abate these nuisances, to eradiate these blotches upon our city's fair same, to protect our ladies from annoyonce and insult. RETRENCHMENT. -To escape the expens attending the trials of those against whom charges have been preferred in the army, General Thomas has directed that charges by whomsoever preferred, shall be closely xamined by the company commander before a board is convened to examine into the charges. General Thomas says, n this counection, that charges are blindly" signed by company officers, and that this entails unnecessary expense upon the Government. The object of General Order No. 57 is to avoid if pos sible the expense attending the conveuin of boards of examination and the trans portation to and from this point of witnesses. It is an excellent order, and the head that conceived it deserves credit for the dollars the conception saves to the Government.

YE SHIPWRECKED MARINERS.-We had he pleasure of meeting Mr. J. M. Fish, who, with his son Master Charley Fish, the celebrated bare-back rider, were on the steamer Emperor, sunk last night at the mouth of the eaual. Mr. Fish suc ceeded in getting everything off, hut the gray horse that Master Charley rides in is perilous feats, and it was thought that he would be saved. The party were on their way to Memphis to join Mike Lipman's circus there. A very successful engagement in Chicago had just been completed. The full particulars relative to the sinking of the Emperor will be found in our river columu. CHANGE OF RATES .- The rates of freight class, $1 47; fourth-class, 97 cents.

RECKLESS HARDIHOOD .- Yesterday even-

-a tempting of Providence. Luckily no nisfortune befell him, but on more than one occasion a shiver of horror pervaded

the vast concourse of citizens who had as-

VIRGINIA FINANCES .- The annual mcsage of Governor Pierpout, of Virginia, has been transmitted to the Legislature of that State, and from it we learn that the receipts of Virginia for the year endng September 30, 1867, are estimated at 81.228.679 30, and the expenses for carrying on the government $510,000. On October 1, 1866, there were $334,607 56 in the treasury, so that the surplus for the current year will be $1,053,286 86. The debt of Virginia, with funded interest, owned by the sinking and other funds. thus leaving $11,005,997 67 on which iuterest is to be paid. The Governor urges rovision for the payment of the interest, which will require the present rate of taxation, 14 cents on the $100, to be increased to 60 cents on the $100. The Governor vigorously combats the idea of epudiating the debt or any part of it. ILLEGITIMATE. - A warrant was issued yesterday from the County Court on the aflidavit of Bridget Sullivan, a mother but no wife, who charges Anson Magiuty with the pateruity of her child. Maginty gave bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance next Monday, at 2 o'clock, when the case will be examined.

A little after 6 o clock he came in again, when some words passed between him and Waltenspiel. Hedington wanted another drink; Wal-tenspiel refused to let him have it, and re-minded him that Marent refused to credit him the previous night. There were two drunken men in the saloon at the time, who were quarreling; Hedington interfered with them, and Waltenspiel told him the men were gentlemen, and ordered him to let them alone and leave the house; Hedington replied, "I will leave, but I'll bust you before I go."

— Waltenspiel became excited and used some abusive language, and opened the door and told Hedington to leave the house. Hedington moved backwards toward the door, and Waltenspiel advanced and took hold of his cost sleeve to lead him out, when Hedington there a reyolver from his breast, and, placing the muzzle against the breast of Waltenspiel, fired. The ball entered about an ineh below the nipple. Waltenspiel was taken up stairs to a room in the Galt House, and Dr. McDowell was seut for, and the wound was pronounced morth. Tennessee Affairs.

Nasuville Dec. 12.

A dispatch was received this morning from the special Legislative committee sent to Memphis to recover the school fand bonds lonned to the Tennessees National Bank, stating that they had arrived, and that things looked favorable. Nothing further has transpired. The Legislature adjourns on Monday for the holidays, and in the meantime the committee appointed to investigate the matter will proceed with their labors. Some of the State authorities believe that the bank, although unable now to return the bonds, will make such an arrangement as will indemnify the State against loss ultimately.

TWO ACCIDENTS ON THE ST. LOUIS AND TERRE HAUTH RAILROAD—FIVE LIVES LOST—SEVERAL PERSONS SEVERELY IN-LOST—SEVERAL PERSONS SEVERELY IN-JURNED—From passengers who arrived in this city last evening, we learn of two ac-cidents which occurred on the above road. The first resulting in the death of five per-sons and the serious injury of several others. On Friday evening the eastward bound freight train, when near Mattoon, collided with a gravel train coming west, both engines were thrown from the track. The conductor and engineer of the freight train were killed, as were also three others, several persons who were on the gravel train were acriously injured. We were unable to learn the names of any of the parties.

unable to learn the names of any of the parties.

The second accident occurred at 4 A. M. yesterday to the westward-bound passenger train. It appears from statements of passengers on the train that by some means a freight car standing on a switch at Pana was by the violence of the wind blown out on the main track, and was runinto by the passenger train. The engineer had barely time to shut off steam when the collision occurred. The locomotive and baggage car were thrown from the track and badly damaged but, fortunately, no one was injured. The leaving of this freight car in the position reported above culpable negligence on the part of some one, and might have resulted in very serious injury to the passengers, of whom there were some one hundred and fifty on the train.—St. Louis Republican of Monday.

In the brigade on the march to Caxaca Maximilian had about 2,000 Belgians, 15,000 Austrians, 30,000 Mexican Imperials, and 25,000 French troops, armed, clothed, fed, and paid every morning, officers fifteen days in advance. On the 3d of December Maximilian issued a proclamation declaring his intention to remain in Mexico.

A great inducement for Maximilian to remain was the arrival of Miramon and Marques from Europe. They pledged themselves to carry on the war with Mejia against the Liberals. Marques's headquarters is at Puebla; Miramon's at Gnanajuacto; Mejia's at San Luis Potosi, where he now is.
